MESA's annual meeting is the single largest gathering of experts on the Middle East. These are scholars who have been in the field, studied the people, and know the ins and outs and all the complexities of the region. They assemble each year to share their research and plan future collaborations, and you could have their undivided attention!

If your target audience is Middle East studies academics, you do not want to miss the opportunity at MESA. Take advantage of these new opportunities.
